Description

Remarks :
‘CWTCH’ is a lovely example of the popular Delphia 31, offering a modern cruising layout combined with the added versatility of a lifting keel. Designed by Andrzej Skrzat and built by Delphia, this well-proportioned sailing yacht offers practical accommodation and the flexibility to explore shallower waters and take advantage of suitable drying moorings.
Her lifting keel provides a minimum draught of just 0.40m, increasing to 1.85m when lowered. This makes her an ideal choice for sailors wishing to explore coastal waters, estuaries and shallower cruising grounds.
On deck, she benefits from teak cockpit seating, a folding steering wheel for improved cockpit access and sheet winches conveniently positioned alongside the helm. ‘CWTCH’ is well equipped, with an electric anchor windlass, bow thruster, autopilot, Garmin navigation instruments including chart plotter, VHF and Webasto diesel heating.
Below deck, the contemporary interior provides accommodation for up to six people across two cabins and the saloon. The layout comprises a generous saloon with a large dining table, separate navigation station, practical galley and heads compartment with shower.
Powered by a 20hp Nanni diesel engine with shaft drive, the Delphia 31 makes an attractive cruising yacht for couples or families seeking a spacious sub-10m yacht, with versatile accommodation and all the benefits of a lifting keel.
