Description

Easy handling thanks to the roller-furling genoa and a mainsail that can be reefed from the cockpit – typical of Etap, unsinkable thanks to foam-filled voids.

The 8 hp outboard with electric starter – installed in the well directly in front of the rudder blade – is conveniently operated from the tiller and flows over the rudder blade as with inboard engines, which makes manoeuvring in harbour easy. The Etap is also easy to handle for sailors with less experience.

It has a large cockpit with 180 cm long seats, berths for up to 4 people, as well as a small galley and a pump toilet with a holding tank.
Thanks to its lifting keel, the draught can be reduced from 145 to 75 cm if needed, though this requires some stamina for the three hundred necessary turns of the winch handle.

Sail plan: mainsail and roller-furling genoa. An “EasyRider” or “Blister”, i.e. a large reaching sail that is flown without a spinnaker pole, is also on board.
